Lee Warren introduction.

Lee has been a professional magician and mind-reader for 20 years. He is a member of the world-famous Magic Circle and was described by Prince William as ‘absolutely amazing’. Lee has written sell-out theatre shows and has written for The Almeida Theatre, The Aldeburgh Festival and The Royal Opera House.

In a previous life, Lee was a sales manager at The Times Supplements and he now uses this background in magic, theatre and sales to give presentations, seminars and keynotes.

Lee works mainly with global firms in finance, technology and marketing, helping people to become more persuasive, present better and increase their ability to connect and get their message across to colleagues and clients.

All of Lee’s sessions are based around two core beliefs -

1. ‘Soft skills’ are the key to personal and professional success.
2. Audience members learn best when they’re being entertained. Great seminars and keynotes should be fun, interactive and memorable.

Lee is fluent in Spanish, gets by in Italian and is very good at playing the piano badly.